Time zone

Berlin time is the Central European Time (CET) and is 1 hour ahead of Coordinated Universal Time (UTC), with a time offset of UTC+1 (in winter).

Like the most European countries, Germany has adopted the use of Central European Summer Time (CEST) daylight saving time in summer, with UTC+2.

→ ISO/TC 201 Plenary will take place during summer time – CEST/UTC+2.

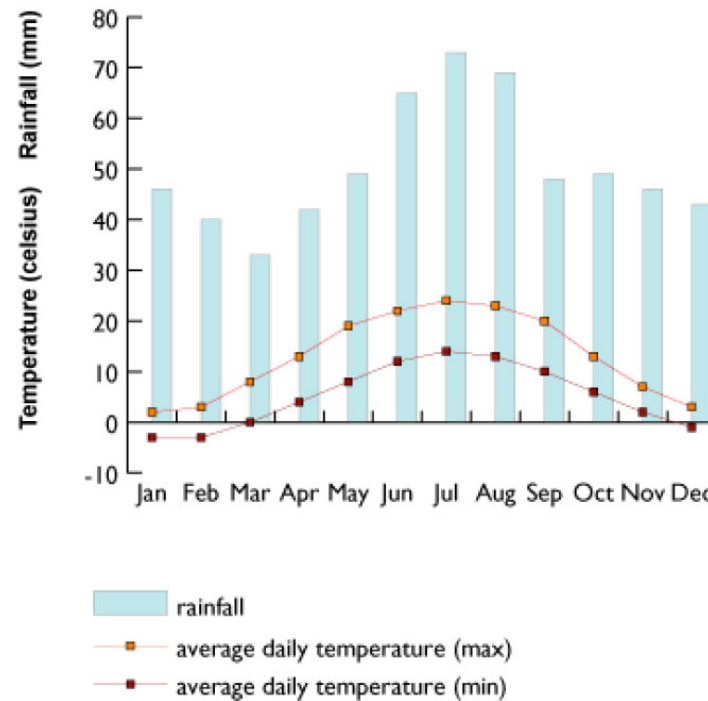

Climate

With average high temperatures of 22–25 °C (72–77 °F) and lows of 12–14 °C in summer and of 4 °C and lows of -2 to 0 °C, Berlin has an Oceanic climate.

Annual precipitation is about 570 millimeters with moderate rainfall throughout the year.

Light snowfall mainly occurs from December through March, but snow cover does not usually remain for long.

→ In Berlin in September: typically >20°C/>10°C and mostly sunny

Area and population

The city-state of Berlin has a approximate population of 3,77 million registered inhabitants in an area of 891.82 square kilometers.

I

National and international migration into the city has a long history. About 1,32 million residents (35 % of the population) were of foreign nationality, originating from 195 different countries.

The largest groups of foreign national are those from Turkey, Poland, Serbia, Italy, Russia, the United States, France, Vietnam, Croatia, Ukraine, Bosnia and Herzegovina and the United Kingdom.

Culture

Berlin is noted for its numerous cultural institutions, many of which enjoy international reputation. It is home to 153 museums and more than 50 theaters.

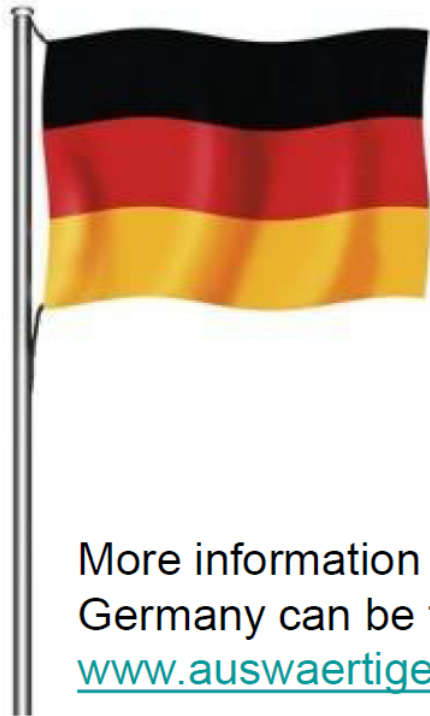

The city also has a very diverse art scene and has around 420 art galleries.

The zoo in Berlin presents the most diverse range of species in the world.

Travel

More information on visas for Germany can be found at:
www.auswaertiges-amt.de

Depending on your nationality, you could need a visa when coming to Germany.

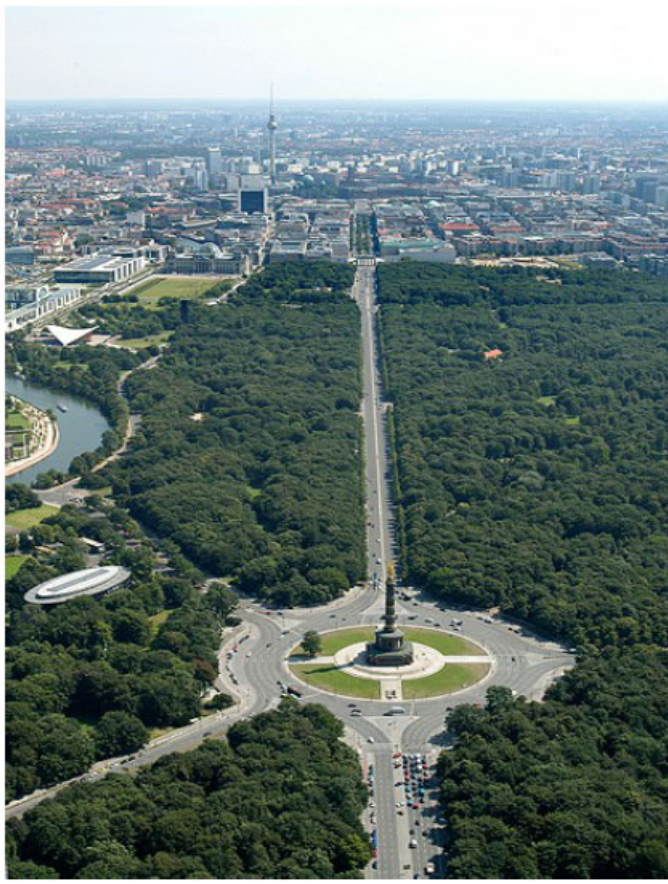

Visas are generally linked to a specific purpose of your stay in Germany (i.e. tourist visas, student visas, business visas, etc.).

Applications should be made at least 6 weeks before the planned departure date.
